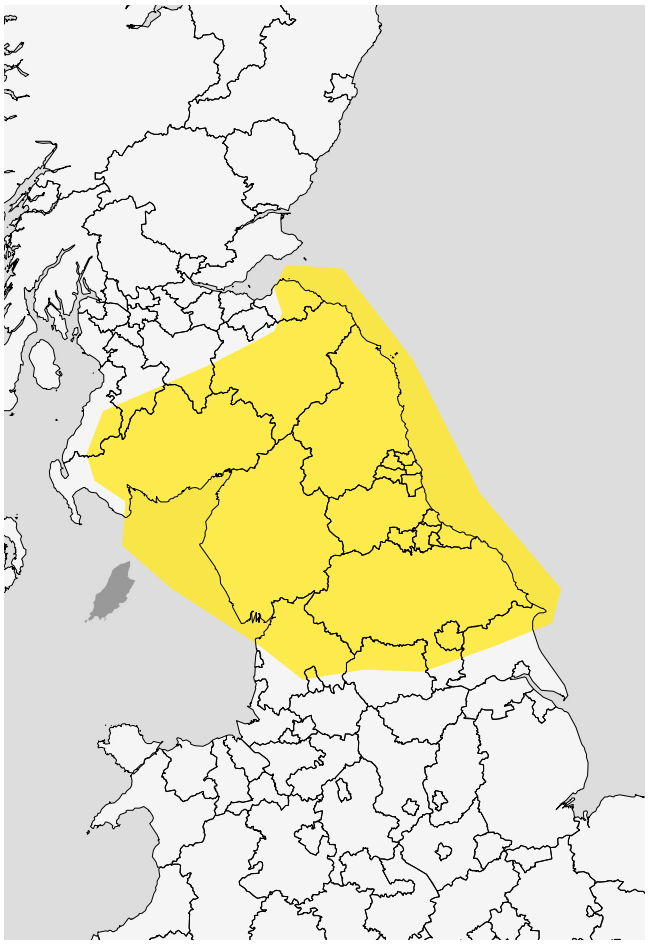
Yellow warning
Wind

Between
00:00 Sun 5 Jul 2020 and
16:00 Sun 5 Jul 2020



Strong winds may lead to some disruption on Sunday.

What to expect

- There is a slight chance of some damage to buildings, such as tiles blown from roofs
- There is a small chance of longer journey times or cancellations as road, rail, air and ferry services are affected
- There is a small chance that some roads and bridges could close
- There is a slight chance that power cuts may occur, with the potential to affect other services, such as mobile phone coverage
- There is a small chance that injuries could occur from large waves and beach material being thrown onto sea fronts, coastal roads and properties

Further details

A swathe of strong winds will continue to affect southern Scotland and northern England during Sunday daytime. The highest gusts will tend to be over the Pennines where gusts of 50-60 mph are likely in some places. Meanwhile, to the east of the Pennines and over the southeastern corner of Scotland gusts of 45-50 mph are likely in places. This may lead to some travel disruption and with trees in full leaf, fallen branches and damaged trees may cause also some localised travel and power disruption. Winds will start to ease a little later this afternoon.

Very low likelihood of medium impacts
